Thank you for answering my questions about the ATM fees I've checked on my bank statements. Thank you, too, for refunding your bank's fees from my previous two months' statements since I was not aware of your new fee policy. I also understand that what other banks charge Second National customers for using their machines is out of your control. With the established fee structure of all the banks involved, though, I guess I should expect to pay more bank machine fees from now on. I must use ATMs frequently to do my banking, and Second National machines are rarely the most convenient for me. Because I cannot accept such fee increases, I will be moving my accounts to First Mutual, whose ATM fee policy seems much more reasonable. Thank you for the nearly 20 years of outstanding service you've given my family.

Last week, an excellent article in the New York Times of August 29 detailed the renaissance of Pittsfield, Massachusetts. This extraordinary endeavor has adopted a bold economic revitalization strategy centered on the arts and historic preservation involving the restoration of the popular Colonial Theater of a century ago. As anyone will agree, the Colonial Theater certainly qualified as an American Treasure. The restored theater reopened on August 29 to wide acclaim, and I am proud of all that Pittsfield mayor James Ruberto and the entire Pittsfield community have accomplished. This recognition of their efforts is exceptionally well-deserved, and I believe all of our colleagues in this organization will be interested in Pittsfield's extraordinary achievement. I commend Mayor Ruberto and the people of Pittsfield for a job well done.
