

1 다음 글의 밑줄 친 부분 중, 문맥상 낱말의 쓰임이 적절하지 않은 것은?

Schoolteacher Carol Tateishi writes that in her Asian upbringing, she was taught that ① silence is a sign of self-reliance and strength. She interviewed five Asian American secondary school students from various ② ethnic backgrounds. Even though their families spanned 100 years of immigration, some recurrent themes emerged, such as “you’re not supposed to say too much” and “③ talk could cause disrespect and harsh feelings.” The girls who entered U.S. schools as English language learners ④ feared speaking up because they were self-conscious about their language skills. Another girl mentioned that girls “were not supposed to speak unless spoken to.” ⑤ Excess in speech was valued by these students and their families, whereas speaking in class and classroom dialogue is taken as intellectual engagement and meaning-making in U.S. classrooms.

2 Nietzsche에 관한 다음 글의 내용과 일치하지 않는 것은?

Nietzsche is one of the supreme literary artists among philosophers. Many Germans regard him as the greatest of all writers of German prose. One reason why Nietzsche has been able to speak to so many creative artists is that he was himself something of an artist among philosophers. He wrote good poetry and composed music, and the most significant friendship in his life was with the composer Wagner. But more important than any of this, his literary style was one of extraordinary brilliance; and this was almost bound to be attractive to other writers. Most of his books are not written in the same sort of extended prose as other philosophy, with arguments and counter-arguments, laid out at length, but are presented in broken-up forms: aphorisms, or biblical verses, or separately numbered paragraphs.

* aphorism 경구, 잠언

- ① 많은 독일인이 독일 산문의 대가로 여긴다.
- ② 예술성이 뛰어난 철학자였다.
- ③ Wagner와의 친분 관계가 각별하였다.
- ④ 다른 작가들이 매력적으로 느끼는 문체의 소유자였다.
- ⑤ 논증과 반증의 방식으로 글을 구성하였다.